CAREER WAS A NOBLE ONE

Leading Figure in Business Life Mourned as One Whose Charities Had Endeared Him

W. W. Cargill is dead.
The end came at 3 o'clock Sunday morning after an illness of twelve days. The financier had made a brave fight against the disease that afflicted him, and his condition seemed slowly but perceptibly to improve up to 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when adverse symptoms appeared. At 11 o'clock the family assembled at the bedside, and death came four hours later.

Surviving deceased are his wife and four children, W. S. Cargill, Austin Cargill, Mrs. John H. Mc-Millan of Minneapolis and Mrs. Fred Hanchet. All were at the bedside except Mrs. Hanchet, who with her husband, is in Switzerland. Austin Cargill returned last week from Ithaca, where he is attending Cornell, and Mr. John McMillan is with Mrs. Mc-Millan at the Cargill residence.

Mr. Cargill's illness overtook him at Conrad, Mont., whither he had gone in company with his son, W. S.
Cargill, and Peter Valier on a business mission. Friday he undertook the journey home, suffering considerably Friday and Saturday on the train. Sunday the party reached St.
Paul and took passage home on the Ellen. Mr. Cargill's private steam yacht, arriving in the city Monday.
Under the most skilled medical attendance the patient struggled with his malady during the week, and while absent members of the family were sent for, favorable symptoms supported strong hope for his recovery until the crisis of Saturday.

Whole City Shocked
News of Mr. Cargill's death came as a great shock to the people of the community in whose business and social life he had played so important a part. Sunday morning papers contained no mention of it, and as the news was spread by regretful citizens and from pulpits at the morning services, sorrow for his loss and sympathy for his bereaved family were everywhere expressed.
While it had been known that he was gravely ill, a subconscious feeling that he would recover seemed to have possessed the public, and people were not prepared for the sad news that came to them on that Sabbath morning.

Funeral Tuesday
The funeral will take place at the family residence, Cass street and West Ave., at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, Rev. D. C. Jones of the First Presbyterian church delivering the funeral oration. The remains will be interred in Oak Grove cemetery.

Banks Will Close
It is announced that the banks, and probably business houses, will close at 2 o'clock tomorrow, during the funeral hour, out of respect for the departed citizen.

Had Avoided Business Burdens
The business affairs of the Cargill companies will not be affected by the death of Mr. Cargill as he discontinued active management of his enterprises in January, 1904, when he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis with the result that his physicians directed him to avoid the responsibilities and activities of business.

Neighbors and Friends Join in Expressions of Appreciation of the Man and Regret at His Loss

"By the death of Mr. Cargill the city has lost one of its very best citizens. He was always deeply interested in those things which were for the best interest of La Crosse and his place will be hard to fill. I have known him for many years and he was always cheerful and in everything that goes to make character he measured up to the best standard of a gentleman."—A. Hirschheimer.

"Mr. Cargill rounded out a full and splendid life. He was a man of great activities and his energies were always directed along progressive lines. He was generous and public spirited, and a valuable citizen from every point of view. His death is a great loss to our city and is universally deplored."—Henry Gund.

"I appreciate Mr. Cargill as a great and good citizen," said Col.
Woodward, "and I am sure his loss will not only be felt in the city but throughout the state as well."

Postmaster W. B. Tscharnar said, "I feel that La Crosse has lost one of its best citizens. He always took great interest in the welfare of the city and being a man of means he was liberal in contributions to public and charitable institutions."

"He was a good man and will be missed in this community," said John C. Burns. "He was the man who had backed more men in enterprises than any citizen here and if a man was about to embark in business Mr. Cargill was the man who was willing to take his note."

"I think Mr. Cargill was the most public spirited moneyed man that we've had here. He invested a great deal of money in local enterprises.
I was personally acquainted with him."
"The majority of our moneyed men invest in enterprises foreign to our city. Although Mr. Cargill had many foreign enterprises he started a great number in La Crosse that have been very beneficial to our city.
I very much regret his death."— John A. Daniels.

"Mr. Cargill was a remarkable business man. He believed in La Crosse and was always ready to help with his time and money any enterprise for the good of his home city.
Great as were his public benefactions, they were exceeded by his private charities. His death is a great loss, greater perhaps than would be the death of any other one man."— E. M. Wing.

"If there was one characteristic which impressed me more than others in my intercourse with Mr. Cargill, I should say it was that of a wise optimism. It seemed to be present in all of his undertakings and under all circumstances I do not remember ever to have seen him dis-spondent concerning affairs, whatever may have been the feelings of others."

"I qualify the word by saying it was a wise optimism, because he gave such consideration to affairs upon which he entered as to comprehend before giving assent to them what their undertaking would require, and made his preparations accordingly, and having entered upon them, he felt it was solely necessary to properly use the means provided, in order to secure the desired results.
His place in our business world will be hard to fill. We have plenty of optimists, we have some optimists who simultaneously have some optimists who are so when they ought not to be, but there are very few men who are able with cheerful confidence to carry through great undertakings to successful issue."—E. E. Bentley.

"The late Mr. Cargill was one of the grandest men in the world.
Acute, shrewd, business man, yet he was gentle, sympathetic and kind to everybody. He was a model man in every relation of life. I have known his intimately for thirty years."— W. S. Burroughs.

"The death of Mr. Cargill is a calamity. It is difficult to name any other business man whose death

FIVE CENT FARE IN CITY'S LIMITS

Water Power Head Makes Provisions of Franchise Public Here
Today

W. J. Ferris, general manager of the La Crosse Water Power company, left on the fast mail this morning for Winona, where he will present to council tonight application for a fifty-year franchise to under that city with the new La Crosse-Winona-Sparta Interurban railway.
Mr. Ferris does not anticipate that there will be any hitch in the granting of the measure. At the time it was turned down a year ago, he assured the Winona aldermen it would be built from La Crosse to Galesville in any event, provided a franchise was obtainable here. Aroused to the realization that this would mean a serious loss of trade in favor of La Crosse, the Winona business men have taken a great deal of interest in the matter and have used their influence to remove obstacles to the granting of the franchise. It is therefore assured that the passage of the measure will be taken without serious alterations.

The franchise is identical with that to be presented here Nov. 12. It provides a fifty-year franchise for the establishment and operation of the line on such streets as the council shall designate, to build any plants necessary to its operation, subject to the city regulations, to construct roads and poles under supervision of the city engineer and to change tracks and grades to conform with future street grades at the company's expense. The company agrees to improve all streets over which its lines pass, as such streets are improved by the city. The city is relieved from liability by the breakage of water or sewer pipes or other damage which may interrupt traffic unavoidably.
Police authority over the lines is given the city, while the railway reserves preference over ordinary conveyances along its line. It is provided the line shall be operated electrically for the conveyance of passengers, freight, mail and express, and all cars shall be modern and of safe construction, for first class service. The passenger fare within the city including ordinary baggage is fixed at five cents. Rates outside the city are to be established and regulated from time to time in a reasonable manner, says the franchise.
The franchise provides the line shall be completed between La Crosse and Winona by the last of December, 1915, and that unless it is so completed, in operation and maintained the franchise shall be void.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 18.— The last strenuous day of the Taft trip before his four days of rest at his brother's ranch began today. Official visits to a number of points of interest in San Antonio were made and at noon the president delivered an address in the shadow of the famous Alamo to a crowd that filled the square.

Half a dozen prominent socialists, members of the political refugees defense league, have been locked up by the government secret service men ber. Their friends have been notified that they must stay in jail until Taft has left San Antonio.

The first information families and friends of these men had that they

GIRLS WANTED TO ATTEND A BANQUET

Wanted—Young ladies who love their La Crosse!
The committee of the board of trade which has in charge the civic betterment lecture to be delivered here Thursday evening by George Blackburn Irving appeals to the patriotic spirit of our girls to help promote an enterprise which is looked to as a force to arouse civic spirit in La Crosse and boom the good old town along.
They want girls to volunteer to sell booster buttons at 25 cents each, the owner of a button to be entitled to free admission to the lecture.

The committee consists of A.
H. Schubert, C. F. Michel, Henry N. Boehm, F. W. Sisson and William Doerflinger. These gentlemen want you, young ladies, to volunteer your services to them in the great work they are undertaking.

All you have to do is to approach a man (you know how to do that), and pin a button on his lapel. Then you extract the quarter painlessly. You know not a man in the streets will refuse you—how could they?
Young women in other cities, the country over, have done it, and why should you not be equally patriotic? The merchants, the bundes, the newspapers, the bands, the theater company, the bill posting company—all these are doing their part, and why shouldn't you?
And listen! The board of trade is going to give you girls who come to the rescue a swell banquet at the Hotel Stoddard!
So hurry right up to the nearest member of the committee, or telephone him, and say you are a volunteer in the service of the best city on earth.

REITZEL'S STORE BURGLARIZED FOR ONLY FOUR CENTS

Rear Window is Pried Open with "Jimmy" Saturday Night and Register Opened

NOTHING ELSE WAS TAKEN

Watchman Lattimer Claims
He Saw Mysterious Man in Shadow of Rear Door

Some time Saturday night after closing hours a rear window at the Reitzel store was pried with a "Jimmy" until the glass broke and a thief or thieves made entrance, rifled the cash register in the cashier's balcony and escaped with four pennies. Nothing else was molested.

Saturday night at about midnight and at 3 o'clock in the morning Night Watchman Lattimer received a telephone call from the Independent office over Reitzel's, that someone was trying to get into the building. He responded and went through the upper portion of the building and down the back stairs, where he claims to have seen a man with a short overcoat and slouch hat lurking in the shadows of the rear door of the Reitzel store. He did not arrest him.

Sunday morning Mr. Reitzel went to the store to attend to the furnace and midway down the aisle heard voices. He paused and reconnoitred, and finally located them outside the store at the rear and proceeding to the spot found a group of men and several policemen. The window, which faces the rear yard of the First National bank building, and which is low enough so that it might be forced from the ground, had been pried around the edges with some instrument. The frame had withstood the attack, but the glass had broken, permitting the thief or thieves to enter. The intruder then made his way into the store and upstairs into the cashier's balcony where he opened the cash register, which is never locked. The top of the gold coin compartment, a small mirror and some private papers were strewn about the desk. Investigation showed four pennies had been placed in the cash drawer at the close of business to balance a small mistake, and these were missing. Mr. Reitzel examined the three safes in the building which contained a considerable amount of money, but they were unmolested. He also called his department managers to the store and they made a thorough inventory of their goods but found nothing missing.

It is certain nothing but the four pennies were taken, and as there were thousands of dollars worth of silks, gloves, furs and plumes in the store it is taken as assured that the work was that of boys or someone without means of disposing of valuable goods, as there was every opportunity for the thief to help himself generously to anything in the store. It is therefore deduced that the thief was not a professional or a skilled burglar.

The police have been placed in position of the full facts and are working on the case.

LOVE OF DRESS IS WOMAN'S DOWNFALL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 18.— Aspiration for fashionable clothes and luxurious living, for travel and for leisure and ambition to break into Cincinnati society are held accountable for Rayne-Avant, arraigned in police court today following her arrest after attempting to pass fraudulent checks in order to buy fine gowns. The woman confessed she had also passed fraudulent checks in Chicago and Des Moines, Iowa.

WOMAN LIKE APE: INFERIOR TO MAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—"Too often do we find in the modern women traces of the survival of the ape." The First Congregational church in Maywood gasped in astonishment as the Rev. Percival Howson Bar-er, made this statement. They gasped more before the sermon was ended, for seldom from the pulpit has come so scathing a denunciation of the "drinking woman," the "gambling woman," and the "feminine snob" and other types of femininity as from the Rev. Mr. Barker's lips.
"Is woman equal to man?" he asked and then answered his own question by saying: "No, thank God, she is not."

CASHIER HANSCOM OF LOOTED MINERAL POINT BANK SUICIDES

BLACK RIVER DAM STOLEN IN CHUNKS

Main Reason Why Water Escapes Into Mississippi, Says New Head of Improvement Co.

FLOW INSURED HEREAFTER

W. J. Ferris Says Floods will Be Caught in Reservoirs and Water Let Down Through Season

The fact that the dams have been stolen by log and rock by rock is responsible for the fact the current of Black river is allowed to flow into the sloughs to the Mississippi above Onalaska, thus endangering the water supply and sewerage of Onalaska and the North side.

"We have been aware for some time," said President W. J. Ferris of the La Crosse Water Power company this morning, "that the material of which these dams were made was being stolen. However, we have not seen fit to try to cause the arrest of the thieves, as the dams are of no material use to us.
Our company now owns the old Black River Improvement company, but this concern was bought up for certain flowage rights we desired in connection with our dams and reservoirs."

"It would be glad to see these dams restored if it is to be necessary to the welfare of Onalaska and La Crosse, but I believe that in the future a good stage of water will be insured without further trouble. When our reservoirs are completed the water will be caught during the flood periods and stored away to be allowed to flow steadily during the entire season, so there would be a good stage of water all the season.
Our present reservoir—Lake Arbutus at Hatfield—has an immense storage capacity, but this will be more than doubled as soon as the Dells dam is completed, which we expect will be in time to catch all of the spring floods. In this way we will have an immense amount of water stored up Black River which will be released in a uniform flow during the year, thus preventing the usual low stage of water from which the people have suffered during dry periods in the past."

It is understood that citizens of Onalaska and the North side are negotiating with government officials to have the broken dams repaired, so that all of the water coming down Black River will flow past Onalaska and this city.

DOES INSURANCE COVER HANGING?

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.— The supreme court of the United States is to consider the question as to whether hanging is an insurable risk. The court today granted a petition of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company for a review of the decision of the circuit court of appeals which held the company must pay the $15,000 policy on the life of former Mayor McCue, of Charlottesville, Va., who was hanged on Feb. 10, 1905, for the murder of his wife. The company maintained it has not insured the man in the event of his death at the hands of the law.

MOTHER DIES FROM SHOCK

Sensational Sequel to Robbery of Financial Institution by Vice President Now Under Arrest

MINERAL POINT, Wis., Oct. 18.— Two persons are dead here today as the direct result of the closing of the doors of the First National Bank of Mineral Point, following the disclosure of a $200,000 shortage in the bank's accounts.

One of the victims is Frank Hanscom, aged 55, cashier of the institution who went to his father's grave in Graceland cemetery and late last night sent a bullet into his brain.
The second tragedy quickly followed the first. Hanscom's mother-in-law, Mrs. John Gray, an aged woman, dropping dead of the shock when told of his suicide.

Hanscom had been an employ of the bank since its foundation in 1884 and for ten years had been its cashier. When the controller of the currency closed the doors of the bank after Vice-President Philip Allen, Jr., had admitted taking $200,- 000 of its money, Hanscom's books were carefully examined. They were found to be in excellent condition, according to reports here, but Hanscom was despondent because the failure had wiped out most of his personal fortune, and because he feared the public would blame him for the crash. Mrs. John Gray also had lost a great amount when the bank failed.

Disappeared Late Yesterday Hanscom disappeared from his home late yesterday. When he failed to return at 10 p. m. his relatives started out to search for him. They found his body in Graceland cemetry lying across the grave of his father who died some years ago. At his side was a revolver and there was a gaping wound in his head. He left no note explaining his act.

Falls Dead at News
The relatives hastened back to town to inform his wife and mother-in-law. When Mrs. Gray was notified, she screamed suddenly and fell back dead, a victim of heart failure.
Hanscom was one of the most popular men in Mineral Point and during the investigation of the affairs of the bank his personal honesty was never impugned.

Just what effect his suicide will have on the affairs of the bank is not known. Receiver John C. Schofield is in charge. He was appointed by the controller of the currency when the latter closed the bank's doors on information furnished by National Bank Examiner Goodart.

Allen Seriously Ill Immediately following the bank's failure, Vice-President Philip Allen, Jr., whose investments caused the crash, was placed under arrest on charges of forgery and embezzlement. He is seriously ill in his home but will be taken to Madison and arraigned as soon as he is able to be removed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Ancient and honorable tactics, blended with an element of luck, boosted the Maroons to victory over Hall's gallant Illini on Marshall field Saturday, 14 to 8. It was another of those grueling, smashing contests always in order when the state men clash with Stagg's machine, and the plucky wearers of the orange and blue, never beaten until the final whistle, gave the Midway squad a bruising scrap. Chicago's first touchdown by Kelley, following an on-side kick, blended with an element of "horseshoes," lacked all the brilliancy of the score chalked up by Roberts in the second period. Page's place kick from the thirty-five yard line, though a remarkable piece of booting, had none of the luster that characterized Seiler's beautiful drop, driven forty-two yards for the Illinois final score in the closing moments of the conflict.

Battling against overwhelming odds the orange and blue cheered on by 2,500 loyal rooters among a tremendous outpouring 11,000 strong, showed a wonderfully improved form. Bear stories emanating from Urbana earlier in the week went to the discard in the first half, when Hall's men, lead by the plucky halves, Bernstein and Roberts, carried on an irresistible attack that all but swept the maroon squad off its feet.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Yale's scrappy gridiron warriors swept Soldiers field this afternoon with the pride of the cadets. The score was 17 to 0 and the bull dog established its victory in even decisive fashion than the figures indicate.

In the first half only did the soldier laddies make any sort of impression on the visitors. In that period the blue was at best held to even terms. But it was a different story in the second half. In this half old Eli cut loose with a vengeance. Capt. Ted Coy led the list of many valuable substitutions who took place of experiments of the first half.

Minnesota, 14; Nebraska, 0.
VINTON PARK, Omaha, Oct. 18.—Nebraska went down to defeat before the powerful Minnesota team Saturday by a score of 14 to 0. All of the points were made in the second half.

The game was marred by the unfortunate accident of Johnston, the Minnesota star halfback, who received a broken leg early in the second half. This great little player, who has been the star of the Gopher team, tore off many brilliant runs up to the time he was injured. He will be sadly missed by the Minnesota team and his loss greatly reduces the chances of the Gophers for beating Chicago on Oct. 30.

"JEFF" AND LIPTON PAIS
LONDON, Oct. 16.—Sir Thomas Lipton and James J. Jeffries were fellow passengers on the Lusitania, which sailed from Southampton for New York today. They went to Southampton on the boat train and Jeffries was introduced to the Irish baronet who shook hands warmly and said:

"I am very glad to meet you. I guess both you and I are trying to do the sporting thing."

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 18.—Thomas Kane was today convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to 12 years in the penitentiary for killing Fred Mohrie in the corridor of the court building where Mohrie was on trial for murder.

JOHNSON DEFEATS STANLEY KETCHEL

Knocks Out Cowboy in the Twelfth Round After He Had Been Floored and Dazed

KETSHEL CAUGHT OFF GUARD

Stanley Drops Guard when Jack Breathes Heavily on the Floor; Means Black Victory

BY JACK JOHNSON.
"Ketchel is a good puncher and a strong man, but I am too strong for him. He gave me the sorest jaw I ever had. He can take a beating, too. Look at my glove. It's just soaked with his blood where I jabbed him in the mouth. Now let Mr. Jeffries come on. I want to show what I can do."

BY STANLEY KETCHEL.
"It was a chance blow. I had him dizzy in the last round. I was in better shape than he was, but for that one blow. He was dizzy when he left the ring. I think I would have beaten him if I had been careful."

Jack Johnson can still claim the world's heavyweight championship. In the arena at Colma, California, Saturday afternoon, in the twelfth round of a fast and furious battle, he knocked out Stanley Ketchel, just after the white man had sent him to the floor with a stinging punch behind the ear which every one at the ring side thought had finished the con. Rising suddenly from the floor, Johnson flew at Ketchel so savagely and unexpectedly that he was taken off his guard as he was stepping back towards the ropes. Before he could put up his guard the con shot his right fist, with all the power and weight of his black, muscular body behind it, to the jaw with a thud that was heard over the house. Quick as a flash, the left followed to the stomach and as Ketchel bent forward from the force of the blow, Johnson caught him squarely on the jaw. The white man had been knocked out. So fierce was the con's onslaught that he fairly hurtled over the quivering mass of unconscious humanity on the floor of the arena, falling on the other side of the ring. He arose, evidently in distress from his own fall, and the blow Ketchel had landed previously, and stood, gasping for breath and hanging onto the ropes. Slowly the cowboy fighter was counted out. At the ten seconds he made a feeble, instinctive effort to rise, but fell back. His seconds carried him from the ring, still unconscious.

If Ketchel was beaten he was not disgraced, and being outweighed by twenty pounds, the Michigan fighter never flinched or faltered. On three different occasions it looked like

SPARTA DEFEATS ELROY EASILY

SPARTA, Oct. 18.—(Special).—Forty to nothing was the score by which the Sparta High School team defeated the Elroy High School football eleven at the fair grounds, Saturday afternoon in the first game of the season.

Sparta showed superiority in every department of the game and only once did Elroy have a chance to score. The feature of the game was the 50 yard run by Ewers after a beautiful forward pass for a touchdown. Walters scored three touchdowns and the work of the team in general was a surprise to the team's followers.

Next Saturday the team will try conclusions with the Baraboo High school team in that city.

CRUTCHES

A woman missionary who was sent as a pioneer agent of a mission to the Indians in the west tells how, when speaking, the gold-filling in her teeth was conspicuous and the native woman came to her in a fever of curiosity and wonder. They thought it proof of her superiority that the white missionary's teeth were partly gold. Those Indian women were not more foolish than the person who is proud of wearing a monocle or carrying any other kind of crutch.

Crutches are very useful where necessary, but they are never good substitutes for natural limbs or senses.

The human body has been subject to so many changed conditions of habit and service that more crutches are in demand than at any time in the world's history. Time was when human sight was not generally impaired in youth. In this age, when we substitute an artificial glare for the morning light, every third person—young or old—wears spectacles. Dentistry is the modern auto-crat that tortures our gums and commands us to wear a set of molar crutches. Its imperious ruling is the penalty we pay for soft foods, hot biscuits and candies.

Physical culture is the popular fad of the times. And as we do not use half our limbs in the service and habits of life it is a necessary fad. The gymnasium is greatly to be preferred to disused and worthless limbs.

But of all crutches the most to be deplored as necessary are the crutches of the mind.

With our university schools and ample opportunities for high education such crutches should find no market. But with rare exceptions the high school graduate cannot make a day-book entry. Many a young scholar who has passed exams in English, Latin, mathematics and other studies cannot write a letter or foot up a grocer's bill.

What is the matter? Trashy stage plays and silly, unimoral love stories or immoral detective fables fill every vacant crevice of their brains.

These condiments are to the mind what ice cream soda is to the human stomach—neither food or beverage —producing only mental dyspepsia.
The mind has limbs as well as the body. Curiosity! sympathy! admiration! wit! memory! Here are five senses, or limbs, of the mind.

Let any one of them be absent or become abnormal and the mind becomes unbalanced, as a body with poor hearing or defective sight, or a paralyzed arm.

Curious we should be to know, to inquire, but curiosity run to seed pokes, its nose into other people's business and becomes cheap, vulgar, and a nuisance. Sympathy that checks harshness, indifference, and cruelty is a fine product, but if in excess, it becomes maudlin and ineffective. Admiration leads to love of the beautiful and is a twin sentiment with reverence and appreciation of the noble and the true. Wit is good but sometimes people mistake smart repartee and coarse jesting for wit. But wit is knowledge and the use of it, Elbert Hubbard says: "Wit is progressive. Cheap jokes go with cheap people." Memory is the individual soul-mark of every human being. It is the one sense of the mind that is exclusively personal and connot be detached. But memory also may run to seed; it may dwell too exclusively upon one set of thoughts; it may hoard up rubbish instead of golden truth and treasures of love.

Here is a field for teacher and scholar. While pouring into the mind facts and principles, sharpening them as tools for the after use, let the limbs of the mind be exercised. A moral gymnasium for the training of mind into action and balance is the next thing in order and value.

Perhaps we can learn to dispense with mental crutches.

W. W. CARGILL

In the hour of sadness following the death of Mr. W. W. Cargill there is no time to accurately estimate the loss his passing has dealt this community, but that the departure of his master mind is an event of deep significance to La Crosse is a statement that will stand the test of closest analysis. Business circles will miss his discerning leadership and powerful influence, society will be strongly conscious of the vacant chair and the palm of charity will miss a willing contributor.

Mr. Cargill's life was a striking exemplification of the truth that "nothing succeeds like success." His faith in his own prowess, born of unusual determination and perseverance, was the foundation of his power to achieve, and no matter how difficult the task he never admitted the possibility of failure. It was this wonderful combination of indomitable will and far-seeing sagacity that enabled him to consummate great enterprises through the intelligent employment of progressive methods.
Where others hesitated with forbod-ings of disaster, he pushed on under the stimulus of self-reliant optimism and so uniformly was he successful that the name of Cargill attached to a business undertaking became accepted as a guarantee of its triumphant outcome.

Modest and possessed of a kindly reserve, Mr. Cargill's generosity was never ostentatious, but those who have been charged with the handling of alms and beneficent funds in this community have seen his checks so frequently that his signature is stamped indelibly upon their memories. Many a young man among his fellow citizens has sought his advice and been answered by his open purse, while churches, institutions of learning, hospitals and other establishments devoted to the betterment of the race have become the beneficiaries of his largess.

His last notable contribution to the uplift of mankind was his splendid gift to the Y. M. C. A. of this city, and it seems an indulgence of providence that he was permitted ere his departure to see its magnificent new home dedicated to the production of wholesome manhood by no less a person than President William H.
Taft.

Differences of opinion which every man of large affairs must encounter are today forgotten in contemplation of his overshadowing potentiality and the manly, humane instincts which dominated him. As time swings on it will be seen that the machinery of business readjusts itself without friction, but the memory of a powerful man, a progressive citizen and a kindly personality will survive with the physical monuments he has reared among his people.

THE BLOOD OF THE MARTYR

Martyrdom is not dead. The spirit of John Brown has appeared in Spain. Francisco Ferrer was subjected to a military farce called a court martial trial and with indecent haste the brave man was shot to death. Ferrer was an enlightened advocate of a better condition for his country—a man who used no weapons but arguments and who sought to win for Spain a liberal government and just ruling. He was to Spain very much what Tolstol is to Russia.
But he would not obey the orders of tyrants who called for silence and they found means to kill him.

The end is not yet. The blood of

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

Till This Recipe Was Tried, Cure Followed in 5 Hours

A prominent medical man, who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often being kept awake all night, and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by any one and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle, one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound.
Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

martyrs has ever been the seed of liberty. All Europe is aroused and the autocrats of Spain will have to pay the price of their deeds which will mean their extinction as rulers. The king himself is in fear of his life, for revolution does not stop before king's castles waiting for the ceremony of invitation.

Not only Spain but all other European countries are aflame with infringement at this murderous act. France is disturbed by the tremendous cry of the socialists and the authorities are unable to suppress the crowds from giving violent expression to their intense indignation. In Italy and Germany too, the socialists are loud in their denunciation of what is undoubtedly one of the most ruthless and insane acts, even of the Spanish government.

Americans of all grades of political opinion are in accord with the spirit of protest. We shall not all approve of everything said by the socialists at their meetings in Chicago but we share with them in a strong protest against a deed that has no parallel in any civilized land for a generation.

JUSSO!

Milwaukee Sentinel: The fact that Mr. Crane, at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war, contributed $10,000 to the Russian hospital service, and therefore had injured the highly sensitive feelings of the proud little Japs, or the fact that Mr. Crane had talked too much and thereby greatly embarrassed the administration, have had absolutely nothing to do with the sudden termination of his diplomatic career, before it had really begun. Secretary Knox has suddenly discovered that if Mr. Crane had lived in Wisconsin he would have voted for Primary Bob for senator, and it would never do to let such a man go to China and attempt to "lafollietize" the 400,000,000 Mongolians, more or less, who rejoice in citizenship in the Celestial kingdom.

SPOTLIGHTS

"Toyland" Here Tomorrow
"Babes in Toyland," Glen MacDonough's and Victor Herbert's beautiful extravaganza, is again touring the country and is receiving a warm reception in every city it has visited.
It is more than duplicating its phenomenal success of last season, if such be possible.

The reason why "Babes in Toyland" has succeeded, indeed been the vogue everywhere, is because it has real artistic worth and from a musical point of view is the triumph of the age if there be any virtue in the criticism of such men as Alan Dale of the New York Journal, Huneker of the New York Sun and every critical authority on the entire press of New York.

The story, dealing as it does with the life of the fairy book children, "Babes in the Woods," is so charming that every man, woman and child revel in it.

The musical numbers of "Babes in Toyland" have been written about so much, and in fact discussed generally so much, everyone is anxious to hear the famous "I Can't Do That Sum," "Beatrice Barefacts," "Before and After," "Barney O'Flinn," and the great "Toyland March," said to be a classical equal to Gounod's "March of the Marionettes."

"Babes in Toyland" will be seen at the La Crosse theater Tuesday, Oct. 19.

WON'T LET COOK GO.

COPENHAGEN Oct. 18.—Unless better reasons are advanced than have so far been given, the University of Copenhagen will not yield its claim to be the first to examine the north pole discovery data of Dr. F. A.
Cook.

The university faculty will meet Wednesday to consider the request from the National Geographic society of America.

The Sunday school lesson was from that scripture which teaches that if your brother strikes you on the cheek, you should turn the other also and endure even for seventy times seven. Johnny had listened to his teacher very attentively while she emphasized this fact, and after the lesson the superintendent rose to make a few remarks.

"Now, boys," he said, "how many times ought another boy to strike you before you hit him back?"
"Just about once!" promptly answered Johnny.—The Delineator.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

"Punkin' Time"
Used to love the roses, Blossomin' so fair;
Beauty on the bushes
An' perfume in the air.
How our tastes keep changin'!
June seeded all sublime.
Now we're just as happy
'Cause it's punkin' time!

Every passin' season Brings its share of glee; 'Tain't no use o' pinn' For what used to be.
Apples in the orchard, Purple grapes that climb Up to kiss the sunlight—
This is punkin' time!

Gold up in the maple An' gold upon the ground!
Nature leaves the nuggets Jes' a-lyin' 'round!
An' the world seems movin'
To a merry chime, Happy an' contented

A Joke on Mullin James Mullin, an office holder at the Philadelphia navy yard, joined the bare-headed walking pedestrian club a few nights ago, not as a matter of choice, however.

In supervising the assortment of some old material in the yard during the day referred to, there was under his supervision a big colored fellow, who seemed to be shy a good hat.

Taking this occasion to get to good joke off on his superior officer, he addressed his workman:

"Sam, you seem to be in need of a good hat. I have one I'll give you.
Go over to building No. 24, and enter the private office, where you will see a panama hat, which I have discarded. Use that. I would rather let you have it than throw it away."

Sam went, but instead of finding the office unoccupied, as Mullin thought, the man on whom the trick was to be played was present, and when Sam told his mission he at once saw the plot, and retaliated.

"Well, Sam," he said, "I have decided to ask Mullin for that hat myself, but I will give you a good derby of mine that does not fit me."

Not Entirely Useless

The young kindergarten teacher was trying to impress upon her wee charges the value of having the full number of fingers bestowed upon them by good mother nature. "Just turn in all your fingers but one and play that it is the only one you have.
Now what could any of you do with only one finger?" True to her expectations all looked down at their lone digit in a panic of helplessness. But Mickey Finn was not troubled for long. As he pondered the subject, a great possibility dawned upon him.
"Shure an' Oi cud stick it in th' jam and soon an' niver be troubled with th' rist av thim."—Delineator.

Obeying the Law

It was Sunday morning at the Jack Straw's castle and the weather-beaten cabby, with a dusky night lot from Camberwell, asked:

"Can I get a drink for my horse, mister?"

Actor and Critic

District Attorney Jerome of New York was praising at the Union club a resourceful lawyer.

"Get him in a hole," said Mr. Jerome, "and he is out of it the very next second. He is as resourceful as an actor I recently heard about."

"This actor, at 2 or 3 o'clock, one morning, got in a taxicab to drive home, and then almost there discovered that his money was spent. He had nothing for a cab fare."

"A famous physician lived nearby, and the resourceful actor, told the chauffeur to stop there. Then he jumped out, rang the physician's night bell and screamed up the tube in an agonized voice:

"Doctor, our baby! It has swallowed its rattle! Quick I've got a taxicab waiting!"

"I'll be down at once," said the doctor.

"And he appeared at once, an overcoat over his pajamas and a case of instruments under his arm.

"The actor bundled him into the taxicab.

"To 84 West Seventh street," he said to the chauffeur. "I'll go on to the drugist's."

"And the actor walked off, chuck-ling for the address he had given was that of an old maid dramatic critic, who had dared to roast his last play."

Furnished by High Medical Authority. Said to Give Exceedingly Prompt Results

The only logical treatment for catarrh is through the blood. A prescription, which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. It is easily mixed.

One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint first-class whiskey.
These to be mixed by shaking well in a bottle, and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bedtime.

The ingredients can be gotten from any well stocked drug store.

"It's a corker, all right."
"I don't much like the way it ends.
It says, right here"—and she bent forward and pointed to the place under criticism—"it says, 'Trusting to your sense of equity, and relying upon a continuance of the traditional friendship between your state and mine, I am, sir, awaiting your reply, very respectfully, your obedient servant.' Now, I wouldn't trust to his sense of anything, and that traditional friendship business is just fluffy nonsense, and I wouldn't be anybody's obedient servant. I decided when I wasn't more than fifteen years old, with a lot of other girls in our school, that when we got married we'd never say obey, and we never have, though only three of our class are married yet, but we're all engaged."

"Engaged?"
"Of course; we're engaged. I'm engaged to Rutherford Gillingwater, the adjutant-general of this state.
You couldn't be my private secretary if I wasn't engaged; it wouldn't be proper."

The earth was only a flying cinder on which he strove for a foothold.
She had announced her engagement to be married with a cool finality that took his breath away; and not realizing the chaos into which she had flung him, she returned demurely to the matter of the letter.

"We can't change that letter, because it's signed close to the 'obedient servant' and there's no room.
But I'm going to put it into the typewriter and add a postscript."

She sat down before the machine and inexpressively rolled the sheet into place; then, with Ardmore helping her to find the keys, she wrote:

"I demand an immediate reply."
"Demand and immediate are both business words. Are you sure there's only one m in immediate? All right, if you know. I reckon a postscript like that doesn't need to be signed.
I'll just put 'W. D.' there with pa-pa's stub pen, so it will look really fierce. Now, you're the secretary; you copy it in the copying press and I'll address the envelope."

"Don't you have to put the state seal on it?" asked Ardmore.

"Of course not. You have to get that from the secretary of state, and I don't like him; he has such funny whiskers and calls me little girl. Besides, you never put the seal on a letter; it's only necessary for official documents."

She bade him give the letter pleasantly while he waited. She spoke of her friends, as Southern people have a way of doing, as though every one must of course know them—a habit that is illuminative of that delightful Southern neighborliness that knits the elect of a commonwealth into a single family, that neither time and tide nor sword and brand can destroy. Ardmore's humility increased as the names of the great and good of North Carolina fell from her lips; for they were as strange to him as an Abyssinian dynasty. It was perfectly clear that he was not of her world, and that his own was insignificant and undistinguished compared with hers. His spirit was stayed somewhat by the knowledge that he, and not the execrable Gillingwater, had been chosen as her coadjutor in the present crisis. His very ignorance of the royal families of North Carolina, which she recited so glibly, and the fact that he was unknown at the capital, had won him official recognition, and it was for him now to prove his worth. The political plot into which he had been most willingly drawn pleased him greatly; it was superior to his fondest dream of adventure, and now, moreover, he had what he never had before, a definite purpose in life, which was to be equal to the task to which this intrigued girl assigned him.

"Well, that's done," said Miss Jerry, when the letter, still damp from the copy-press, had been carefully sealed and stamped. "Governor Osborne will get it in the morning. I think maybe we'd better telegraph him that it's coming."

"I don't see much use in that, when he'll get the letter first thing tomorrow," Ardmore suggested. "It costs money to telegraph and you must have an economical administration."

"The good of it would be to keep him worried and make him very angry. And if he told Barbara Osborne about it, it would make her angry, too, and maybe she wouldn't sleep any all night, the haughty thing! Hand me one of those telegraph blanks."

The message, slowly thumped out on the typewriter, and several times altered and copied, finally read:

"Raleigh, N. C.
"The Honorable Charles Osborne,
"Governor of South Carolina,
"Columbia, S. C.:

"Have written by tonight's mail in Appleweight matter. Your vacillating course not understood."
"WILLIAM DANGERFIELD,
"Governor of North Carolina."

"I reckon that will make him take notice," and Miss Jerry viewed her work with approval. "And now, Mr.
Ardmore, here's a telegram from Mr.
Billings which I don't understand.
See if you know what it means."

Ardmore chuckled delightedly as he read:

"Can not understand your outrageous conduct in bond matter. If payment is not made June first your state's credit is ruined. Where is Foster? Answer to Atlanta."

"GEORGE P. BILLINGS."
"I don't see what's so funny about that! Mr. Bassford was walking the floor with that message when I came to the office. He said papa and the state were both going to be ruined.
There's a quarter of a million dollars to be paid on bonds that are coming due June first, and there isn't any money to pay them with. That's what he said. And Mr. Foster is the state treasurer, and he's gone fishing."

"Fishing?"
"He left word he had gone fishing.
Mr. Foster and papa don't get along together, and Mr. Bassford says he's run off just to let those bonds default and bring disgrace on papa and the state."

Ardmore's grin broadened. The Appleweight case was insignificant compared with this new business with which he was confronted. He was vaguely conscious that bonds have a way of coming due, and that there is such a thing as credit in the world, and that it is something that must not be trifled with; but these considerations did not weigh heavily with him. For the first time in his uneventful life vengeance unsheathed her sword in his tranquil soul. Billings had always treated him with contempt, as a negligible factor in the Ardmore millions, and here at last was an opportunity to balance accounts.

"I will show you how to fix Billings. Just let me have one of those blanks."

And after much labor, and with occasional suggestions from Miss Jerry, the following message was presently ready for the wires:

"Your infamous imputation upon my honor and that of the state shall meet with the treatment it deserves.
I defy you to do your worst. If you come into North Carolina or bring legal proceedings for the collection of your bonds I will fill you so full of buckshot that forty men will not be strong enough to carry you to your grave."

"Isn't that perfectly grand!" murmured Jerry admiringly. "But I thought your family and the Bronx Loan and Trust company were the same thing. That

Stranger Rushes Into Gibson Brothers' Store, and Screamed This Warning Today

Mail Carrier Appears and Minnesotan Insists on Being Taken to the Lock Up

Screaming at the top of his voice, "Lock me up, I am desperate, I will kill some one," a well dressed man ran into the confectionary store of Gibson Brothers, 813 Rose street, about 11 o'clock this morning, demanding to be taken to the police station. After his sudden demonstration had ceased he asked Thomas Gibson to lock him up.

"I can't do that," said Mr. Gibson.

"I am no officer."

"I am desperate," said the man.

"I am just as liable to shoot some one as not."

About that time A. A. Gibson, the mail carrier appeared on the scene and the man seeing the uniform shouted, "Here's an officer, he'll lock me up."

"I haven't time," replied Mr. Gibson.

"Well, I'll wait till you have got the time," responded the stranger.

Mr. Gibson took the man down to station No. 2 on Mill street, but there were no officers there, as it was about time for the fast mail train on the Milwaukee. He finally discovered an open cell and locked the stranger in until the arrival of the officers.

The police gave out the information the man is from over in Minnesota and that he was just recovering from an all night orgy, in which liquor played a leading part.

FORWARD PASS WINS FOOTBALL GAME

A splendid forward pass from Beddesen to Garder won a fast game of football between the First ward and Tenth ward teams for the First ward Saturday afternoon. The game was played at the high school grid-iron.

In the last four minutes to play the Tenth ward came near scoring when they forced the ball to within two feet of the First ward goal. The ball was here when time was called.

responsible for this great attendance is James A. Wood, who has filled the position of director of exploitation. Mr. Wood is a Seattle newspaper man, who for years prior to his present work occupied positions of responsibility with leading newspapers in Seattle and other cities of the northwest. When he took over the publicity work of the exposition seven months prior to the opening June 1 the complaint was widespread that the fair had not been well advertised. Hundreds of prominent Seattle people returned from trips throughout the United States with the complaint that they had heard nothing of the coming exposition during their travels. They had made inquiry everywhere, had visited railroad offices and other public places of information seeking literature about the fair, but no information was to be obtained, no literature to be had. The exposition people at home admitted the truth of the charge.

Within one week after Mr. Wood succeeded to the position of director of exploitation the wheels of publicity were moving. Mr. Wood was not experienced in the matter of bringing to the attention of the world a new exposition. But he adopted some common sense methods, induced every resident of Seattle to become a publicity agent for the exposition, and immediately every letter, every pamphlet which went out of Seattle bore the A. Y. P. seal, and tucked inside the letters was interesting literature concerning the coming fair. Then he introduced throughout the northwest the slogan, "What Helps Seattle. Helps the Northwest;" commercial clubs and other public bodies, as well as individual citizens took up the cry; all became boosters and in a short time hundreds of thousands of advertising pamphlets were going into every nook and corner of the United States, as well as Canada, Europe and the Orient.

Washington is a cosmopolitan state; there are people within its borders from every state in the union. Home state societies were organized and each society made it a point to see that the people from their particular state learned all about the exposition. All were asked to come and bring their friends.

Railroads, magazines and newspapers of the country came to the assistance of Mr. Wood, inspired by the work he was doing, and this alone gave the exposition as much advertising as any previous exposition had received. Returns soon showed that Wood's campaign had been effective. Eastern passenger agents wrote and wired that they had all the people they could possibly care for; they were no longer concerned about the number of west bound passengers; what they needed was equipment to haul them. Then came June 1, opening day, with close to one hundred thousand people in attendance. Since that time the average attendance has been close to 30,000. That put the stamp of success on the exposition.

SECTION WORK IS DISCONTINUED HERE

Italians Go Back to Chicago; Engines Are Pooled

Owing to the Shortage

The entire section crew of the Milwaukee road here composed of foreign laborers was laid off and paid Saturday night. Most of them have returned to Milwaukee and Chicago for the winter.

All the work in the east yards, upon which this crew has been working for the past few months is finished for this season. This work is however, by no means completed. It is several months behind time. Active work will not be started here again until next spring. The section crews composed of regular railroad men is still at work and will be maintained throughout the winter.

Because of the heavy business on the DuBuque division of the road and the lack of crews the freight engines are being "pooled" at DuBuque and at the North side round house. This is the cause of much complaint on the part of the engine crews, who take one engine into the city and are given a strange locomotive to take back. Engines on the River division were also being placed in the pool several weeks ago but it has been discontinued because of the increase in the number of locomotives and crews.

The bridge and building department of the Milwaukee road has been decreased ten per cent. As there is but ten men employed in the department in this city but one man was laid off, not affecting the work to any extent.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Oct. 18.—

The proper methods of curbing the evil of "white slavery" are expected to play a prominent part in the discussions of the discussions of the national purity congress which began here today.

The address of Harry A. Parkin, assistant to United States District Attorney Sims of Chicago on the question "White Slave Traffic," delivered last night, was the sole topic of discussion when today's session began and it is likely to result in the adoption of strong resolutions memorializing congress to enact more drastic laws against this evil.

At the opening session which began at 1 p. m., the principal addresses were those on "The Duty of the State to the Child," by Mrs. A. T. MacKenzie of Seattle; "Adolescence," by Miss Ellen Snyder of Chicago, and "Pre-natal Influence," by J. B. Caldwell of Chicago.

At tonight's session the chief paper will be one on "Christo-Eugenics: the Next Step in Human Redemption," by Mrs. Mary T. Teat, national purity evangelist.

Mr. C. B. Case, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is recovering.

A number of little girls were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. W. Brunton Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Dorothy's birthday.

Why did the Michel Prewing company add two new W. B. U. graduates to its office force, John Rau and Joseph Jirza? Ask them: Ask any business man why he prefers W. B. U. graduates in his office.

tion or worthy young man in the way of success by furnishing the necessary capital, and so discriminating was his judgment of men that establishments to which he lent a helping hand quite uniformly became thriving factors in the business life of La Crosse.

The Pine Bluff Property
One of Mr. Cargill's most notable successes was his development of the Pine Bluff property. He took over this concern when it was in its infancy, and the energy which he threw into it put it quickly in the front rank of lumber producing companies. The railroad constructed to make possible the transportation of its product was finally sold to a through railway company for a consideration said to have been a million dollars, and the capacity and business patronage of the company have been expanded until its earnings are very large.

Our New Railroad
Perhaps the enterprise by which Mr. Cargill contributed most to the commercial prosperity of La Crosse was the building of the La Crosse and Southeastern railway, running from La Crosse to Viroqua. Prior to its construction people from that rich section, including Westby, Cashton and Coon Valley, had no access to La Crosse except by way of Sparta, the trip involving an all night stop-over at the latter place. The construction of the railroad had been begun, when the promoters found themselves in financial straits. Mr. Cargill, who had already contributed to its stock subscription, but who had not desired to incur the labor and responsibility of so strenuous an enterprise, rather than see it fail took it over and pushed the road to completion. Today its trains are daily bringing hundreds of shoppers to La Crosse and carrying immense quantities of freight both ways, the road having become one of the city's most valuable trade avenues.

An Ear for Charity
But the busy life of this indomitable man was not too full of business to find time for charitable works, and mingled with his aggressive business characteristics there was a tender sentimentality the impulses of which he freely indulged. His name was at the head of deserving charities with regularity that his fellow citizens have grown to regard as an established custom, while scores of young men owe their business successes to his helping hand. While prolific in his beneficence, he was not profligate, and before his hand went to his checkbook applications for his largess were closely scrutinized as to their legitimacy and wisdom.

Memorial Church
One of Mr. Cargill's favorite genealogies was bestowed upon the Methodist congregation at Janesville, which he regarded as his native town, having spent his boyhood there. For them he constructed the Cargill Memorial church, a splendid edifice in which the people of Janesville take great pride.

Give Largely to College
Mr. Cargill was greatly interested in Albert Lea college, a sectarian institution located at Albert Lea, Minn., where his business career was begun, and he contributed heavily to its support.

Y. M. C. A. His Pride
La Crosse's monument to the memory of Mr. Cargill is the splendid new Y. M. C. A. building, a structure whose magnificence and substantiality render it the most attractive edifice in the city. He gave its inspiration by an initial donation of $25,000, and to this splendid gift he secretly added the promise to its promoters that they might return to him for any amount they were unable to raise by general subscription. In the power of this institution as a factor in the evolution of clean and upright citizenship, Mr. Cargill was deeply interested, and he enjoyed of La Crosse, but in the development of a wide section of the northwest. He was born December 15, 1844, in Long Island, where his father, W. D. Cargill, was interested in a line of trading vessels. In 1856, when he was twelve years of age, the family removed to Janesville, Wis., where his youth was spent on a farm. In 1866 Mr. Cargill went to Austin, Minn., moving shortly afterward to Albert Lea and engaging in the grain business. In 1875 he came to La Crosse, continuing in the grain business. His first associate was S. Y. Hyde, who for three years after 1876 was affiliated with him under the style of The Hyde-Cargill company. After the dissolution of this company he operated under the firm name of Cargill and Van, and the company he then organized was the foundation of the present W. W. Cargill company, whose grain elevators extend throughout Minnesota and the two Dakotas, with branches at Minneapolis and Duluth.

Was Widely Active
The abundant energy and zeal of Mr. Cargill was not fully employed in the building up of this powerful concern, however, and his activities branched out in many directions. He promoted the Cargill Coal company; financed the La Crosse & Southeastern railway, of which he was president; controlled the Keweenaw railway later taken over by the Green Bay, of which he was vice president bought and developed the splendid property known as the Sawyer & Austin Lumber company at Pine Bluff, Ark., after the deaths of Sawyer and Austin, its original owners.

He was a stockholder in the National bank of La Crosse, was formerly interested in the various lighting companies of the city, and was president of the Vote-Berger company which he re-organized on a sound basis several years ago.

Not Exactly Investments
Beside these large interests, in most of which he exercised control, Mr. Cargill had put money into many smaller business concerns in La Crosse. These for the most part were not recognized by him as investments, his motive in most instances having been to put some promising institu-

MINERAL POINT BANK CHECKS ARE PAID

MINERAL POINT, Wis., Oct. 18.—"It will be some time before I shall be able to make any statement as to the condition of the First National bank here," said John W. Schofield, receiver, Saturday morning.

In the meantime, the Iowa County bank has stepped into the breach and is taking care of the situation. It has notified all of the merchants and farmers that it will extend liberal credit wherever needed. In consequence all protested checks and drafts issued on the defunct First National bank are being taken up as fast as presented by those who issued them.

OTHER CITIES TRY TO GET FACTORY

That the Hackner factory may leave La Crosse as the result of the controversy over the laying of the Green Bay sidetrack to the plant, was among the possibilities intimated by Mr. Hackner. He is in receipt of letters from four cities offering inducements to bring his factory there. One of these is from New York city. The manufacturing city of Pittsburgh is even bidding for the factory. The tone of the letters is the same. They have heard of Mr. Hackner's trouble and are willing to offer valuable inducements for this important factory.

LIGHT SERVICE OFF 12 MINUTES

Owing to an open circuit at the power house last night, electric light service was cut off from all patrons on the alternating circuit. The shutdown took place at 7:55 and the city was left in darkness for twelve minutes while the damage was being repaired. Both of the theaters and most of the city churches were on the direct current and were not affected.

And Just as Good as Ever
An old physician of the last generation was noted for his brusque manner and old-fashioned methods. One time a lady called him in to treat her baby, who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil.

"But, doctor," protested the young mother, "castor oil is such an old-fashioned remedy."

"Madame," replied the doctor, "babies are old-fashioned things."—Philadelphia.

To Make Cut Glass Sparkle.
To catch and reflect the light, cut-glass must be spotlessly clean and transparent. Soap leaves a greasy film on the glass which is hard to remove; the following method of washing will, however, be found to leave the glass crystal clear. It is best to use a wooden tub for washing cut glass, but if one is not at hand, put the metal dish sink with soiled glass linen towels or any soft pieces of cotton. Wash the glass in a warm suds, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in a pan of warm water; use a soft brush to clean the surface, then rinse in water of the same temperature. After the glass has been carefully dried on glass linen, use a camel's hair brush to polish the cut surface. To clean the inside of water bottles, insert a very thin glass linen towel and force to all parts of the bottle with a cheap wire holder.

$250 DAILY FOR HORACE M'KINLEY
That's What the Arch Land Grafters Is Earning in Jail by Means of Pauper's Oath

Horace G. McKinley, land fraud king, is earning $250 a day serving time in the county jail at Portland. That is the way Horace puts it. He was sentenced to two years in imprisonment and to pay a fine of $7,000 for defrauding the United States government out of valuable timber lands, which McKinley sold to speculators for a small part of their real value. The two years' time expired last Thursday, and now the fine only hangs over McKinley. Under the law at the expiration of 30 days McKinley can take what is called the pauper's oath, as it is called, and will be released. He will state that he has no money, and his intimates say he hasn't much.
When asked why he didn't pay the fine and get out, McKinley answered with a smile:
"Why should I? I can make $250 a day by staying here."

Mother Jones Gone
Mother Jones, the famous agitator and friend of the western miners who has been here has disappeared and her friends assert that she too has been either locked up at the request of the secret service men or asked to leave town.
Mother Jones was here until Sunday and since then has not been seen. The political refugees defense league has been very active in espousing the cause of Mexicans locked up for spreading revolutionary propaganda during the troubles a year ago. A monster meeting was recently held here in an effort to secure the liberty of some of these men.
Threats Against Diaz
Since the Taft-Diaz meeting was planned there has been great activity on the part of socialists and alleged anarchists. It has been rumored that the alleged anarchists have demanded the death of Diaz. No threats, so far as known, have been made against Taft, but the secret service men are reported to have requested local authorities to hold the known leaders of the anarchists and socialists until after Taft leaves town.

Painful Dyspepsia
A Form of Indigestion Caused by Gastric Irritation from Undigested Food in the Stomach

No kind of dyspepsia is better marked than that known as "painful indigestion," and it is also a very common affection. Pain, generally of a dull character, is felt after meals, and along with the pain, soreness at the pit of the stomach often exists, and in some cases the soreness is permanent. The tenderness is commonly restricted to a spot in the middle line of the body, immediately below the breast-bone.
It often extends upward under the bone, which consequently feels sore on pressure, or the tenderness is felt toward either side. This tenderness is commonly associated with an unpleasant feeling of heat—"a burning sensation"—as it is termed by some persons. There is also a "gnawing" and "dragging," as well as various other anomalous sensations complained of after taking food, and generally within an hour after eating.
As might be supposed the intensity of the symptom is proportionate to the quantity and quality of the meal. When the stomach is empty, a sensation of craving or emptiness gives most trouble. This often causes a false appetite, which, by inducing the person to eat heartily aggravates the sufferings. Thirst generally causes much annoyance; heartburn, water-brash, acidity, nausea, and headache are not infrequent attendants. The tongue is usually coated and from a mere inspection of this organ the condition of the stomach can often be correctly told.
It is a common error with persons who suffer from stomach pains caused by indigestion and gastric irritation, to use such drugs as chlorodyne, Hoffman's Anodyne, and other "pain killers" for its relief. Such treatment is a great mistake. While these drugs afford temporary relief to the dyspeptic pain, they have no effect whatever in removing the cause.
STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS remove the cause. By completely digesting all the food in the stomach, there is no further possibility of the occurrence of this disagreeable form of dyspepsia with its painful manifestations and other concurrent symptoms. All of the irritation of the stomach-lining and stomach-nerves as the result of the undigested food lying in that organ and undergoing fermentation and decomposition is quickly done away with.
But not only is the form of dyspepsia which is accompanied by pain cured through the use of these digestive tablets, but also every other form of indigestion, as there are many kinds in which stomach pain does not occur, but where there are many symptoms equally disagreeable, discomforting, disconcerting and discouraging.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain, in a highly concentrated form, powerful and anti-dyspeptic ingredients, which digest rapidly and thoroughly food of every kind, including proteins, nitraets, corbo-hydrates, etc. A single grain will disintegrate and digest 3,000 grains of food.
Purchase a box from your druggist at once (price 50 cents), and get rid of the pain, discomfort and other disagreeable symptoms of dyspepsia. Also send us your name and address for free sample package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

The committee on six o'clock dinners will report, and there will also be a report from the committee on the Gen Garcia lecture, which will be held here in the near future.
This meeting will not be preceded by a dinner, but will come to order sharply at eight o'clock. All members are urged to be present and participate in the discussion of the various subjects.

would be such a loss to the community. He was a very generous man in public and private charities, and a public spirited man, active in the interests of the community. He was a genial companionable friend with nothing aristocratic about him. He was a citizen very useful to the community, never seeking any ulterior end for his deeds.—Benjamin F. Bryant.
"Mr. Cargill's death will be felt by the community and by every individual as a personal loss and misfortune. During the time that I've lived in La Crosse I have frequently and many times had my attention called to the kindly acts that he has done for many people. No man had a kinder heart than W. W. Cargill, and an appeal to his sympathy generally reached to his purse. There are hundreds who owe to him personal obligations for kindnesses performed, of which only Mr. Cargill and the recipients of his kind acts knew. He was an impulsive man and of exceedingly lively sympathy with the misfortunes and sufferings of anyone and he was accustomed to act individually in accordance with his kindly impulse."—Frank Winter.
"Mr. Cargill's death was the greatest loss the city could have suffered," said Mayor Ori J. Sorenson. "He was a good and liberal hearted man, always willing to give a helping hand where it was needed."
"Mr. Cargill," said George W. Burton, "was one of the most kindly, sympathetic, great hearted men I ever knew. He was a fine example of the true Christian spirit, which seeks not to judge or criticize or lecture the man in misfortune or need, but to help him. Mr. Cargill will be missed more than any of us can appreciate by all sorts and conditions of people. We shall not see his like again."
"The city loses in the death of Mr. Cargill, one who has bound together more ties of friendship and of business than any one other man. He was universally loved by all who came in contact with him. Democratic in his daily life, generous in disposition, fair in his judgment of men and affairs, he was always kindly."—Geo. M. Heath.
"My connection with Mr. Cargill was purely in a business way. I knew him personally only as a business man but have had many dealings with him. In his death the community will suffer untold loss. He was a public benefactor."—J. A. Thwing.
"I consider Mr. Cargill's death a great loss to the community. He was one of the very few of our prominent men with such phenomenal commercial ability. Personally I was intimately acquainted with him. He was a noble man. His death is an irreparable loss to this community."—George B. Rose.
"Mr. Cargill was one of the finest wealthy men I have ever known. While meeting with success industrially, he did not lose those attributes which made him a genial, companionable and lovable man. As a business man he was possessed of a large vision and courageous active and singularly free from the petty and narrow covetousness that frequently guides small men."—William F. Wolfe.
"I can say that Mr. Cargill was one of the foremost among La Crosse citizens, leading in all things for the development of the morals of our people and the furtherance of their economic welfare. There has probably never been another single individual in this community who has had so great a faculty for doing good and furthering public enterprises. Mr. Cargill was a man with a large heart, ready to assist in things which were never credited to him. He has contributed in many instances where no one ever knew the source of relief. His death is a very severe loss to the citizens of La Crosse and the northwest in general."—John M. Holley.
"I knew him and his parents before him, when I was pastor of the church at Janesville, Wis., which his parents attended. He was a man of clear morals, large hearted, generous, and a wondrous companionable sort of man. I do not know of any man whose loss would be felt more, because of his high minded public spirit."—Rev. Henry Faville.
"Mr. Hogan is out of the city, but I know that Mr. Hogan always thought very highly of Mr. Cargill as a friend, man and citizen and held him in highest esteem."—F. W. Fox, manager, J. J. Hogan.
"I have been for many years associated with Mr. Cargill in social and business enterprises and also in church affairs. I have always found him a large hearted, generous, and enterprising citizen, one who could always be relied upon. No words can express my estimation of the loss which the community suffers through his death."—Robert Calvert.
"I am sorry to hear it. It is a great loss to the community, one which is irreparable. He was one of the greatest financial men in the northwest. I had known W. W. Cargill for many years and knew him as an honest and reliable man. I had

Removing the outward symptoms is not all that is necessary to cure Contagious Blood Poison. The virulent germs which produce these external manifestations must be completely driven from the blood before a real cure can be effected. The least taint left in the circulation will sooner or later cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. Only a blood purifier can cure Contagious Blood Poison. Medicines which merely check the symptoms for a time, because of their strong mineral nature, and leave the poison smoldering in the system, have brought disappointment to thousands. The disease always returns after such treatment. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison and cures it permanently. It goes into the blood, and removes every particle of the poison, making the circulation pure, rich and healthy, nor does S. S. S. leave the slightest trace of the disease for future outbreaks. S. S. S. does not contain any mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, which are most valuable in their blood-purifying properties, and at the same time specifically adapted to building up the entire system. If you have Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. will cure you because it will thoroughly purify your blood. Home Treatment Book and any medical advice free to all.

"Mr. Cargill died so suddenly and so unexpectedly that the city as a whole will suffer a great shock. He was a man who will be greatly missed among us. W. W. Cargill was a man of great importance, big things and large projects. There is no one in the city who can take his place."—L. C. Colman.
"He was one of the best friends that any man could ever have. His death is a great loss to the community, one which can not easily be afforded. His life was a benefit to La Crosse."—Harry Colman.
"W. W. Cargill was a man of sterling and upright character and a public benefactor. In common with all who knew him, I deeply deplore his death."—Judge E. C. Higbee.
"I have known Mr. W. W. Cargill for ten years and have been associated with him in the Presbyterian church and as trustee of the Y. M. C. A. Words cannot express my admiration of his noble character. His interest in and devotion to the good of his fellowmen manifested his lofty Christian spirit and his many benevolences, large and small, given without expectations of worldly honor, will endear his memory to all those whom his benefactions blessed and, though dead, he will live in the hearts of those who knew him."—F. H. Schofield.
"W. W. Cargill was one of the finest and most affable men I ever knew. It is one of the greatest losses to the community that has happened for years. He was a great citizen, both in private and public life. His generosity has been manifested time and time again. He had the confidence of the public at all times. No one can say anything too good of him."—Judge John Brindley.
"I had known Mr. Cargill for the past twenty-five years and regarded him as a true, upright gentleman in every way. He was a public spirited man always ready to respond when called upon, and always ready to manifest his interest in the municipality."—John Dengler.
"The loss to the city in the death of W. W. Cargill is an irreparable one. There was no more public spirited citizen in our midst. While he accumulated a large fortune, he spent it liberally and made large investments, resulting in the employment of many people. He was a public benefactor, not only to our city of La Crosse but to other communities and his generosity in connection with our newly erected Y. M. C. A. building will be long remembered. He was a man, democratic in his ways and approachable at all times. He was constantly looking toward the betterment of the community in which he lived. He is entitled to the grateful remembrances of every citizen of La Crosse."—Congressman John J. Esch.
"In the death of W. W. Cargill the city and citizens have met with the most serious loss that ever befall them," said J. W. Bryant. "Not because he was a rich man but because he was a broad, well balanced, everyday conscientious citizen whom one and all from children to business people, loved to meet."

"The death of W. W. Cargill has brought sorrow to this entire community, and his loss will be felt more and more as time passes. He has stood as one of our foremost citizens for more than twenty-five years. No man with a meritorious claim ever appealed to Mr. Cargill and went away empty handed. Personally, I greatly deplore his loss."—George H. Gordon.
"I've known him well for almost forty years, and I never yet heard anyone speak but well of him. He was a good man. He was generous and big hearted. He loaned his money freely and has probably helped many without anyone knowing it. Merchants and business men who need for assistance were not usually refused aid."—William Duncan.
"The death of W. W. Cargill is an irreparable loss to La Crosse. Mr. Cargill was easily our most distinguished citizen. Generous, lovable ever anxious to help, loyal and obliging were the qualities that endeared him to everybody. Always approachable to rich and poor alike, he always had time to listen to your cause, and was singularly cheerful and happy and healthy."—Henry A. Salzer.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED TODAY

Today was motion day in circuit court and the morning session was devoted to divorce matters. Decrees were granted to Kate Wiser against Phillip Weiser, for cruel and inhuman treatment, and to Mary V. Stone from Thomas F. Stone. Mrs. Stone was given permission to resume her maiden name, Mary V. Wheeler, and the custody of her child was given to her mother, Violetta Wheeler of Vernon county. The husband was ordered to pay the sum of two dollars weekly for the support of the child, and it was ordered that he be permitted to visit her at regular intervals. Another divorce case is being argued this afternoon.

CHIPPEWA STAR IS VICTOR OVER HIGH

Dorias of Up-state Eleven Proves Waterloo of Locals in First Big Contest

LA CROSSE PLAYED BEST GAME

Team Work was Ahead of Opponents, but Score was 6 to 0 Against Home Team

The La Crosse high school football team met its first defeat this season Saturday afternoon at Chippewa Falls at the hands of the aggregation at that place by the score of 6 to 0. The La Crosse team played a better game than their opponents, having the ball continually in Chippewa Falls' territory during the first half and also in the latter part of the game. The defeat of the local boys was due to the cleverness of Dorias, the Chippewa Falls quarterback, who carried the ball to the La Crosse two yard line on a fake kick. Dorias dropped back for a field goal but instead of kicking the ball he circled the La Crosse left end for a gain of thirty yards. For one down the La Crosse line held, but on a tackle over tackle play N. DeLong carried the ball over for the only score of the game. It was a hard game for the local high school to lose, but it was a case of one man against eleven, Dorias, the Chippewa Falls quarterback, having the skill to throw off the La Crosse men time and again, after they had once secured a hold of him which resulted in long gains. Findlay, the former Wisconsin star halfback witnessed the game and remarked afterward that the work of the La Crosse team was far superior to that displayed last season.

The only weak point displayed by the La Crosse team was the failure of the ends to get down the fields under punts. There was no particular star on the La Crosse team but the good work of Ray, right end, was perhaps the most noticeable.

Detail of Plays

The game in detail follows: Chippewa Falls kicked off to Tiedeman at 3:45 p. m. Sidenso netted 4 yards on a cross buck but Tiedeman was held on an attempted tackle over tackle play. Ray punted to Dorias, who returned 20 yards. Chippewa's right half fumbled the ball for a moment and was thrown for a ten yard loss. Dorias punted and a Chippewa Falls man fell on the ball on an attempted forward pass but after two plays Ray was forced to punt. Dorias caught the ball and dodged the La Crosse men until he had returned twenty yards. Chippewa made it first down on a forward pass and a cross buck but La Crosse then held for two downs. Dorias punted to Shaw, who was downed in his tracks. A forward pass, Shaw to Ray, was good for twenty yards. Shirley hit center for eight more and made it first down on another plunge. Shaw, on a quarterback run, gained twelve yards. Two forward passes netted eight yards but through a misunderstanding as to what down it was La Crosse lost the ball on the twenty yard line. Ray tackled Chippewa's right half for an eight yard loss. Dorias punted, evaded Shaw and carried the ball ten yards, around right end. Dorias was tackled for a five yard loss on the next play, being downed before he could pass the ball. Ray intercepted the next forward pass but La Crosse could not gain and he was forced to punt. Chippewa returned the punt. Strum failed to gain over right tackle. Shaw cleared left end for twenty yards and Shirley added ten more on a delayed pass. La Crosse failed to gain in two downs and Chippewa secured the ball on a quarterback kick. The ball was now on Chippewa's eight yard line. Chippewa punted to Shaw. After Shirley had failed to gain through center, Ray punted. Dorias was downed by Shaw on the one yard line. Chippewa made five yards in two downs, then punting out of danger. Strum made three yards over right tackle but lost as many more around right end. Ray punted. A trick play failed to gain for Chippewa. Chippewa then punted to Shirley. On the next play La Crosse was penalized five yards for off side play, the only penalty inflicted during the contest. Chippewa's full tried center on two successive plunges but failed to gain a yard. Dorias punted to Shaw. Sidenso netted ten yards on an end run. Shirley made four yards over center. Chippewa then securing the ball on an inside kick. Chippewa failed to gain over Brindley and resorted to punting. Shirley gained twelve yards for La Crosse on a forward pass. Another forward pass tried but was broken by Chippewa's right end. Time was called with the ball in the middle of the field in Chippewa Falls' possession.

The Second Half

Tiedeman kicked off to Dorias, who returned twenty yards. On a quarterback, an end run and a forward pass Chippewa Falls made 20 yards. They then fumbled but recovered at a fifteen yard loss. Dorias kicked to Shaw. Shirley struck a stone wall in the opponents' center. A forward pass, Shaw to Stavrum, netted eight yards for La Crosse. Ray kicked to Dorias. Dorias returned the punt after failing to gain around right end. Shaw and Shirley failed to gain. Ray punted to Dorias and he made an inside kick. Before La Crosse could get on the ball Chippewa Falls had secured it for a large gain. Chippewa failed to gain on a forward pass. Shaw secured the ball on an inside kick. After a forward pass had failed Ray punted to Dorias, who returned 20 yards. Dorias made 20 more on an end run and fell back for a supposed field goal. But he circled his own right end for a long gain but on a tackle over tackle play DeLong went over the line on the next down.

The game from here on was a desperate struggle, La Crosse trying to at least tie the score and Chippewa Falls trying to hold La Crosse. La Crosse could gain steadily for a time but were not consistent enough. Chippewa Falls never tried over one play at a time after a touchdown had been scored but resorted to punting. The game ended with Ray punting to Chippewa Falls.

Officials—Harry Spence and "Coot Cunningham" Regan, field judge; head linesman, Youngbluth. In the evening a reception was tendered the La Crosse team in the gymnasium of the high school. The event was thoroughly enjoyed by the local boys.

Is a statement made in a letter just received from Mrs. A. C. Rogers, 1446 Wilson Avenue, Chicago, who has been using Eyeaid, a simple home treatment, which has so benefited her eyes that she can practically dispense with her glasses during the day. She says, "No more glasses for me." This is only one of thousands of letters that are coming in regarding Eyeaid, prepared by the Sanigenic Company. Eyeaid is the standard Antiseptic, Tonic, Remedy and Beautifier for the Eyes. It is a positive remedy for weak, red, sore or inflamed eyes, and for itching, scaly or granulated lids. Eyeaid is guaranteed absolutely harmless to the eyes of both children and adults and does not dilate the pupil of the eye.

The new Patented Sanitary Dropper, as shown in the cut below, appears upon the front cover of the little booklet which is being sent to oculists, specialists and the public in general, which tells the whole story. Eyeaid is the only eye tonic that has a Sanitary Dropper and is filling a long-felt want.

You will find a bottle of Eyeaid in the vest pockets of gentlemen and on the dressers of ladies, which is positive proof that Eyeaid is going to be popular with all of those who are obliged to wear glasses. It soothes, strengthens and beautifies the eyes, and the convenience of the dropper makes it a simple home treatment that can be used by any one.

FIND KIDNAPERS OF BOY AND GIRL

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Peter and Justina Viviano, parents of Tomasso and Grace Viviano, the St. Louis children who were kidnaped last August and held for $25,000 ransom, arrived here today to take charge of the children. The boy and girl were found wandering on the streets of Chicago.

That Samuel Turissi, an Italian formerly employed by Peter Viviano, kidnaped them, was the statement made today by the boy Tomasso. The elder Vivianos are anxious to take the children back to St. Louis tonight, but it is doubtful if little Grace will be able to stand the trip. When found she was thinly clad and had caught a hard cold which has developed into pneumonia. Physicians attending the child said at noon that it might endanger her life to take her to St. Louis in her present condition.

The children disappeared from St. Louis August 2 last. Grace Viviano is the daughter of Peter Viviano, a wealthy fruit dealer, and Tomasso is her cousin. At 4 p. m. of the day they disappeared, Peter Viviano received an unsigned letter directing him to place $25,000 in a specified place.

FOND DU LAC SEEKS COST OF EDUCATION

They Educate Outside Pupils at Actual Expense to the City Taxpayers

The city of Fond du Lac educates non-resident students in its high school for annual tuition of $18, when the actual cost to the city is $35 per student. The taxpayers have to pay the balance, so E. W. Clark, mayor, has written to City Clerk Jos. Siegel of this city asking for information concerning property valuation, tax rate, students in the high school, number of outside students, cost of each student to city, tuition of outside students and the amount of the state aid received by the local schools.

The city of Fond du Lac is confronted with a proposition to build a $150,000 addition to the high school, principally for the purpose of taking care of the large number of non-resident pupils, and the mayor of that city seeks full information upon the subject as it is handled in other cities, including La Crosse, to aid in solving the problem. He does not feel it is right to sell out $35 worth of education for $18 and force the taxpayers of Fond du Lac to pay the deficit of $17 on each pupil.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 18.—Friends of Emil Bansmer, aged 32 years, are puzzled over his mysterious disappearance. Since Saturday morning, Oct. 9, he has been missing from the home of Paul Kochanski, where he boarded. His trunk containing his best clothes is still in his room. It is alleged that he was in Fairbanks, Alaska, last January on furlough. He disappeared and later an investigation of his accounts at the post where he was acting as paymaster's clerk, showed that $11,000 was missing.

RACINE DIVIDED ON DANCIN IN SCHOOLS

RACINE, Wis., Oct. 18.—Miss Rhoda Gooch, Milwaukee, has made a request of the board of education which has caused a clash among school commissioners. Miss Gooch desired permission to teach games and dances in the public school to the students. Commissioner John Wiechers, member of the Baptist church, opposed the request. Commissioner W. G. Blossom, pastor of St. Luke's church, favored the granting of the request, as he believed that it would teach the children to become more grateful.
